A critical element of professional policing is ensuring the response to resistance we use is appropriate, legal, within policy, reviewed for improvement and enhanced training and supervised. Below is an abbreviated summary of the instances of our response to resistance to arrest:

Officers stopped a Domestic Battery suspect and observed a handgun on the floorboard of the suspect vehicle. An officer drew his service pistol and ordered the male out of his vehicle. The male complied and was taken into custody without incident.

Officers located a suspect vehicle that had just been reported by a neighboring agency, having an occupant point a handgun at a passing motorist. Officers kept their handguns at a low-ready while conducting a high-risk vehicle stop. No weapon was ultimately recovered.

Officers responded to a Domestic Battery involving a highly intoxicated adult male. The male aggressively approached the first Officer on scene. The Officer extended his hand to keep the suspect back, and the suspect struck the Officer's hand. Officers engaged with the male and utilized a leg trip to take the suspect down, controlling his decent and then established a pinning position on the suspect, restricting the suspect's ability to resist. Utilizing a joint lock the officers were able to secure the male in handcuffs without causing injury to the suspect.

Below are warrants issued by the St. Clair County State's Attorney's Office for cases worked by the police department and their detention status this month.
